Combating antimicrobial resistance (AMR)

Taking action against AMR through social media and political advocacy. AMR is a huge threat to human life, and I believe we all can – and should – take action to stop the rapid spread of drug resistant infections. I am committed to raising awareness of this growing pandemic through social media and by urging my government in Uganda to take AMR seriously and invest in prevention, research, surveillance, and the development of new antibiotics. Because all of us need to be resistance fighters.
